Buckinghamshire College Group is committed to ensuring 'Equal access to opportunities and inclusive learning underpins all that we do'.

Core Principles

Buckinghamshire College Group (BCG) works within the 2015 Special Educational Needs and Disability Code of Practice: 0 to 25 years. All young people are entitled to an education that enables them to make progress so that they:

- Achieve their best
- Become confident individuals living fulfilling lives; and
- Make a successful transition into adulthood, whether into employment or higher education or training.

The College is fully committed to the inclusion of students with Special Educational Needs and Disabilities (SEND) provided that the College is compatible for the young person's age, ability and aptitude and that their attendance is not incompatible with the efficient education of other studies in the College and is an efficient use of the Local Authority's resources.

In keeping with the College's principles of Equality and Inclusion, we affirm that:

- All learners are of equal value
- We recognise, respect and value difference and understand that diversity is strength
- We foster positive attitudes and relationships
- We have the highest expectations of all our students
- We work to raise standards for all students
- We observe good equalities practice for our staff
- We foster a shared sense of cohesion and belonging

The College uses the term parents to signify parents, guardians and/or carers, ie. all those who have parental responsibility for young person.

Scope of Policy

This policy applies to students with Special Educational Needs (SEN), their parents and all staff.

This policy should be read in conjunction with the following:

- Admissions Policy and Procedure
- Equality, Diversity and Inclusion Policy
- Exams Policy
- Safeguarding, Child Protection and Vulnerable Adults Policy including Prevent

- Student Anti-Bullying and Harassment Policy
- Student Disciplinary Procedure
- Health and Safety Policy
- Teaching, Learning and Assessment Strategy

Definition of SEN

A young person has SEN if they have a learning difficulty or disability which calls for special educational provision to be made for him or her. A young person has a learning difficulty or disability if he or she:

- has a significantly greater difficulty in learning than the majority of others of the same age; or
- has a disability which prevents or hinders him or her from making use of educational facilities of a kind generally provided for others of the same age in mainstream colleges or mainstream post16 institutions.

Special educational provision is educational or training provision that is additional to or different from that made generally for other young people of the same age.

Disabled Students

Many children and young people who have SEN may have a disability under the Equality Act 2010 – that is ‘...a physical or mental impairment which has a long term and substantial adverse effect on their ability to carry out normal day-to-day activities.’

There is a significant overlap between disabled young people and those with special educational needs. Where a young person requires special educational provision over and above the adjustments, aids and services required by the Equality Act 2010 they will be additionally covered by the SEN definition.

Key Requirements/Legal Duties

As a College, we will use our best endeavours to meet the needs of our SEND students. This policy responds to the requirements and recommendations of:

- The Children and Families Act 2014
- Special Educational Needs and Disability Code of Practice: 0 to 25 years 2015
- The Special Educational Needs and Disability Regulations 2014
- The Equality Act 2010
- The Special Educational Needs (Personal Budgets and Direct Payments) Regulations, Section 49

Objectives of this Policy

- To identify and provide for students who have special educational needs
- To work within the framework provided in the SEND Code of Practice 2015
- To operate a whole student, whole College approach to the management and provision of support for special educational needs
- To ensure access to the curriculum for all students
- To provide support and advice for all staff working with students who have special educational needs
- To develop and maintain partnership and high levels of engagement with parents
- This policy will be updated regularly.

Partnership with Students and Families

The College works in partnership with students and their parents. Students’ views, opinions, wishes and feelings are always considered. We aim to provide as much information and support as necessary to help students achieve the best possible outcomes, preparing them effectively for adulthood. This will enable students with SEND to achieve good outcomes.

The College recognises that parents have a unique overview of their child's needs and how best to support them.

We have high aspirations for all our students, including those with SEND and use a Person Centred Planning approach when preparing for their needs. Person Centred Planning is a process for continual listening and learning, focusing on what is important to someone now and in the future. Students with SEND are integral to the decision-making processes affecting them.

Identifying and Assessing Students with SEND

The College has a clear approach to identifying and responding to SEND. There are many opportunities throughout the application and enrolment process for a student to declare their SEND needs. All tutors are responsible for identifying students with SEND and, in collaboration with the Head of Learning Support and Learning Support Team Leaders, will ensure that those students requiring different or additional support are identified at an early stage.

On entry to the College every student's attainment is assessed in order to ensure continuity of learning. This may identify students who require additional class-based interventions and/or further assessment.

- Information given at interview and enrolment is used to shape the students' provision in the first few months
- The College regularly gathers information about every student's progress
- We expect students and parents to participate as fully as possible in the assessment, planning and reviewing process.

The SEND Code of Practice 2015 does not assume that there are hard and fast categories of SEN. It recognises that children's needs and requirements fall into four broad areas:

- Communication and interaction
- Cognition and learning
- Social, emotional and mental health difficulties
- Sensory and/or physical needs.

In line with the SEND Code of Practice we accept that students often have needs that cut across all these areas and their needs may change over time. We acknowledge that while considering the needs of the young person, some areas which are not SEN may impact on progress and attainment:

- Disability
- Attendance and punctuality
- Health and welfare
- Being a Child Looked After.

NB. Behaviour is not a special educational need in itself. In keeping with the SEND Code of Practice, poor behaviour is viewed as a response to an underlying unmet need which the College, in partnership with parents and the young person, will endeavour to identify.

The Graduated Approach to Meeting Special Educational Needs and Disability

High Quality Teaching

Teachers are responsible and accountable for the progress and development of the students in their classes, including where students access support from Learning Support Assistants (LSAs), specialist tutors or other specialist staff. High quality teaching, differentiated for individual students, is the first step in responding to students who have or may have SEND. High quality teaching of all students, including those with special educational needs, is a whole-College responsibility. This requirement has been strengthened in the SEND Code of Practice 2015.

- All BCG students have access to a Study Programme that is tailored to meet the needs of individuals. Targets are set to meet our students AMBITIONS.
- The College regularly reviews the quality of teaching for all students, including those at risk of underachievement. In addition, the Head of Learning Support and Team Leaders carry out regular learning walks to ensure that high quality teaching for SEND students is in place across the curriculum.
- Tutors are able to access detailed advice on all students with SEND.
- There is regular advice and training for colleagues at all levels.
- The College aims to provide advice and training to improve tutors' and Learning Support Assistants understanding of the SEN most frequently encountered in College and to develop their skills in identifying students with particular barriers to learning.
- Where necessary, outside agencies deliver bespoke training.
- Preparing for adulthood is embedded into student provision.
 - The College will support students with SEND towards greater independence and employability, enabling young people to achieve their ambitions.
 - The College will support students with SEND to prepare for adulthood. Strategies for this may include exploring different employment options, independent living, participating in society, and being as healthy as possible in adult life.

Criteria for the Allocation of Support

When a student has been identified as requiring additional support to meet their individual needs this can be through:

- Education Health Care Plan
- Self-referral leading to an assessment by the Learning Support team
- Transition information gathered from previous educational settings
- External professional referrals
- Tutor referrals.

Education Health Care Plan

The Head of Learning Support will be consulted by the student's Local Authority (LA) to assess if 'outcomes' identified in the ECHP can be met by the College provision. There may be specific situations where a young person needs cannot be met by the College and this will be communicated to the LA in line with the SEN Code of Practice.

To meet 'outcomes' the College may be required to deliver provision in partnership with subcontractors who will take the lead with specific elements of a young persons 'outcomes'. This subcontracted provision is in agreement with the LA.

The College will conduct EHCP Annual Reviews in accordance with the SEND Code of Practice.

In a situation where the agreed provision does not meet the planned 'outcomes' the Head of Learning Support will call an emergency EHCP Annual Review to reassess the provision in partnership with the LA and other key partners eg. CAMHs, SALT.

Self-referral leading to an assessment by the Learning Support team

Young people and parents can self-refer to the Learning Support team. In these situations, they will be offered an assessment with a Learning Support Team Leader and, where appropriate, will refer onto one of our Specialised teachers.

Course Leaders and Curriculum Managers will be informed of any required adjustments.

Transition information gathered from previous educational settings

As part of the transition process the College may receive information from a student's previous educational setting advising that the student has additional needs. With the student's consent the College will work to gather information and arrange assessments to put appropriate support in place.

External professional referrals

The College may receive notification of students with additional needs from professionals connected to the College as well as external professionals. With the student's consent the College will work to gather information and arrange assessments to put appropriate support in place.

Tutor referrals

Tutors may identify students who are not making progress despite quality first teaching and request the involvement of the Learning Support team. The Learning Support team will then gather information and arrange assessments to put appropriate support in place.

Examination Access Arrangements and Reasonable Adjustments

Through the transition into College process, self-identification, tutor referral and professional referral, the College will arrange for students who have been identified as potentially requiring access arrangements for external examinations to be assessed by a specialist assessor. If students meet the criteria for access arrangements and reasonable adjustments as specified by the awarding examination body, the College will put the appropriate arrangements in place.

Transition to Further Education, Employment and Training

We place students and their families at the centre of planning for transitions. The College works in collaboration with other educational providers to facilitate the smooth transition of SEND students in to the College. This could be through arranging additional visits, taster sessions or through other resources eg. photographic scrap books. The College supports SEND students through advice and guidance transition to new courses as part of their progression within College as well as leaving College to do: community programmes, apprenticeships, employment or higher education.

Students with SEND and Bullying

Our Anti-Bullying Policy makes it clear that all our students have the right to feel safe from bullying. The College has a robust and consistent approach to bullying, which makes it clear that bullying will not be tolerated. Students with SEND may be more vulnerable to bullying and harassment and so particular care is taken to ensure that they feel supported and that any incidents are dealt with promptly.

Students with SEND and Exclusions

When considering whether to exclude a student with SEND, BCG pays due regard to guidance which states that colleges should try every practicable means to maintain a student with SEND in College and should seek local authority and other professional advice as appropriate.

Complaints Procedure The College's complaints procedure is outlined in the prospectus and on the College's website.
