Name: Corey Baptiste-Williams

Job Role: Lecturer in Sport

Specialism: Coaching, Psychology, Biomechanics, Anatomy & Physiology

After completing a 3 year BSc in Sports coaching at Southampton Solent University, a voluntary role led to me teaching as a sessional lecturer in sport. After a year this led to a fulltime position which I have been in for the last 2 years. This role not only has given me to a chance to complete my teacher training but also allowed me to watch and learn from industry experts, in teaching and coaching, who have a great deal of experience in their areas. Allowing me to pick up skills that I can use to positively impact the lives of young people as much as they do.

Hobbies and Interests: Sport, football and even a bit of gaming!

Ever thought about how your love of FIFA pro clubs could help you on the pitch in real life? Well it can. I love to be unconventional in my methods and look at things from an 'outside the box perspective'. People can learn to use things they do every day to help benefit them in everything they do. Football/sport is my passion. I could play, watch or coach any sport all day every day and yes I mean ANY sport. I take this passion into everything I do. I believe that education is about learning your subject and craft while enjoying the journey. Sport brings so many people so much joy why should learning about it be dull?
